Texas-Montana-Alberta Mexia-Cat Creek-Irma

Three of the Most Important Oil Districts of the Continent.

Mexia Produces Forty Million Dollars Worth of Oil During Discovery Year.

Last Week Drillers at Cat Creek Brought in a
10,000 Barrel Gusher Which Assures
Montana Production.

Irma, With Better Prospects Than Either of These Had a Year Ago is Waiting Development.

The Mexia Field has at the present time 475 producing wells and possibly twice that number of derricks in the area where thorough tests have been made. Since June, a year ago this field has produced more than twenty-seven million barrels of oil which has sold for thirty to forty million dollars. The total cost of this enormous production has been estimated at four million dollars. This money was spent in sending down tests, erecting storage, building pipe lines, field surveys, houses for employees, office and house rentals, and other various expenses incidental to the production of oil. Production at Mexia during the last week remained stationary at around 70,000 barrels.

Big Gusher in Montana.
With a roar that could be heard a mile the new Frantz well in Section 14-15 29 east of Cat Creek Field came in last week with the largest production ever brought in in the Rocky Mountain district. This well which is rated at 10,000 barrels per day assures production of an enormous quantity of the new oil fields of Montana. The oil in the Frantz well is coming from the second sand, and while it has been believed up to this time that the second sand in the Kootenai formation was a dry sand, it has proven the sensation of the oil development of Montana. Cat Creek has been shipping 5,000 barrels of high grade oil a day from wells that came in around 200 to 500 barrels a day. The new well will more than double the production of the field.

IRMA THE NEXT BIG FIELD
Irma, the most prominent oil field in Alberta is slowly shaping for a plan of development that we believe will surpass anything in Canada for some years. Stretching as it does over a broad area of terrace or monocline formation, it only remains for a few more test holes to be put down when Canada should be assured of a supply of oil that will last for years. Though hampered by arbitrary and unstable regulations which has retarded outside capital from investing in Alberta oil development. Men representing independent oil operators have been securing leases, which at the present time are being protected by work in other parts. Now that oil has been discovered in the district, groups of capitalists in Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto and other districts are arranging to capitalize these holdings and let contracts or bring in rigs for the development of the acreage they have secured. The Imperial Oil Co. and other large companies have secured large tracts so that when the actual development starts there will not be the big demand for leases that has taken place where these companies have had to come in after the wild catter has proven the field.

BOARD OF PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION WILL KEEP CHECK ON WILD CATTERS

Before an oil company offers to sell stock to the public in Alberta they must procure a permit to do the same from the Board of Public Utilities. This Commission is very strict about passing any investments, and will not give its sanction to any company that attempts to issue watered stock, or to give its promoters blocks of stock for which they do not give full value, or to offer to the public stock in a venture that has not a reasonable chance of making good. Before a company can receive permission from this Board to sell its stock to the public, it must submit sworn statements in which the following information is given:

Registered name of company, Head office of company, Full geological report of the property being taken over by the company by a reputable geologist, Class of title to property, Capital of Company, Actual cash received for shares, Price of shares, If any consideration involved other than cash? if so full details of same. How are sales of shares to be made? by personal canvassing or by advertising, or by both. Full list of directors with names and addresses. Copies of all pending contracts. Valuation of property by an engineer who has not had any interest in the property or company. Copy of prospectus. Copy of by-laws. Copy of contract for shares to be entered into between company and proposed subscribers. Full financial statement of company's affairs. A filing fee which depends upon the amount of issue to be authorized. Any other information the members of the Board may require. With all these safeguards the investing public should at least have a fair chance with their money when investing in the most speculative and often the most sensational gamble of the age.

Had this Commission been functioning in 1914 the oil industry in Alberta would no doubt have better prestige with the public. The knock-out blows that the oil investors received in those days would never have happened. Some of the promising properties that were abandoned through high financing might have now been producing oil.

NO WORD FROM IMPERIAL WELL
Apparently the powers that be have not seen fit to resume operations at the Fabyan well. The derrick and bunk houses have been completed at the new location for the Wainwright Development Co. The Irma Oil Holdings are negotiating for a drilling contract on the leases held by them. The parties intended in drilling are waiting for a report from their geologist. This will probably be ready in a week's time.

WORK ON HIGHWAY PROGRESSING

Wednesday noon the men working on the trunk highway finished the stretch between Irma and Jarrow. This had been one of the worst roads in the district, following the north bank of the Grattan Coulee it was almost impossible to pick a trail fit for a car to follow. With the grade completed parties motoring from Jarrow to Irma will not only be able to ride in pleasure but will not need to dodge the many stones that have been the means of delays and broken cars. The camp has been moved to the road running N. of Jarrow and an effort will be made to connect up the gap between Jarrow and Kinella before the harvest rush is on.

RADIO EXPERTS ENTERTAIN

IRMA CROWDS
Residents of Irma and district were treated to their first demonstration of the mysteries of the radio. The Co-op. Hall was crowded to the door and Messrs Webb and Green, the experts with the Edmonton Journal's touring radio outfit, gave a good demonstration of what could be expected with the new invention.

An aerial wire was stretched from the top of the Co-op. Hall to the Bank of Montreal flag pole. The gramophone records were heard as distinctly in the Hall at Irma as if the audience was in Edmonton 110 miles away where the records were being played. Unfortunately the entertainment had to be discontinued about 9:30 so as to allow the experts to take the night train for Wainwright. A dance was put on by some of the younger people after the show.

The telephone will soon have Avonglen in touch with the outer world. Staking of this district having been done the past week.

The social evening and dance in honor of Nellie McTavish was a most enjoyable affair. Voluntary items furnished a program for the early part of the evening. Mrs. Prothers and Mr. Hunter rendered very pleasing music, dancing of the Highland Fling by six girls of the school was a pleasant feature. The presentation of a box of stationery by the district to Miss McTavish, who after a short vacation will return to Avonglen for the fall term ended a pleasant hour.

Lunch served the lovers of the light fantastic enjoyed themselves until the wee sma' hours.

Church service will be held at the Avonglen school on July 16th and every second Sunday thereafter until further notice.

Own Your Home

A campaign that is worthy of support, and one it is to be hoped will prove largely successful and be persisted in from year to year, is now in progress in quite a number of cities and is finding prominence in the news and advertising columns of the daily press. It is a campaign of publicity to educate people as to the wisdom of taking steps to acquire a home of their own instead of remaining "renters" all their life.

While such a campaign can probably be carried on more spectacularly and effectively in the larger centres of population, it is one that might well be extended to towns, villages and hamlets, and what is of even greater importance, to the strictly rural communities.

Nothing is quite so well calculated to give stability to a nation as to have its citizens, to as great an extent as possible, the actual owners of the dwellings in which they reside. When a man or woman has a stake in his or her country, province, and local community in the form of a piece of land owned by them and upon which they have established their home, certain very desirable results follow.

In the first place, such persons are far less likely to be influenced by demagogic appeals of agitators designed to undermine the stability of the state and shake public confidence in national institutions. The person with a fixed stake and interest in the country will give second thought before embarking on a rash enterprise, whereas people having no such interest in the country are more easily led astray by the professional trouble maker.

Ownership of a home constitutes a powerful factor leading to permanence of population. It is the man having no real interest in a community, as evidenced by lack of his own home, who is here today and gone tomorrow. It is the renters of the world who are forever on the move and who because of a lack of a stake in a given community will likely keep on moving and never amass anything.

People living in rented premises are paying the landlord's taxes for him, a good rate of interest on his investment, thus yielding him a profit and in the long run actually paying for the property. The amount thus paid out annually in rental would in the course of years pay the purchase price and the present short-sighted renter have an asset to show for his money.

The family living in a rented house inevitably take less care of the property than would be the case if it was their own. They do not exert themselves to anything like the extent an owner would to improve and beautify the property, with the result that communities where renters predominate do not present the same prosperous, go-ahead appearance which marks a community of home owners. The incentive to steadily add to the value of the property is lacking, on the contrary, the opposite effect is too frequent. It is noted because improvement of the property by the renter may easily result in a demand from the landlord for a higher rental.

What is true in the case of the renter of a city or town is equally true of the renter-farmer as contrasted with the farmer-owner. It is the renter who strives to get all he can out of the soil during the usually brief period of his sojourn on the land. He is not concerned about the future, with the result that the land and buildings deteriorate and the community, province and country suffer loss.

It is gratifying to learn, therefore, from statistics recently compiled that no other country in the world shows such a high proportion of home owners in the larger cities as does the Dominion of Canada, and in this respect the cities of Western Canada are ahead of those in the Eastern Provinces. It is probably true, too, although figures are not available, that in respect to ownership of land by farmers who are living the soil Canada occupies a higher place than other countries. The majority of farmers in Canada are owners, not renters, but there appears to be a tendency in this country—and in an even more alarming degree in the United States—for renters to increase in number. Great Britain has realized the mistake of having huge tracts of land owned by the few and the great majority of agriculturists reduced to renters. Now the great English estates are being broken up, and many farmers are thus being enabled to secure land of their own.

Here in Canada the stability of the state, the securing of permanence of population, the improvement and permanent development of property, and the maintenance of a high standard of living all call for the giving of every possible encouragement to people to become the owners of homes of their own. Buying or building a home is good business for the individual as well as for the state. "Own Your Home" should be the ambition of every Canadian.

LINGERING WEAKNESS FOLLOWING DISEASE

Due to the Fact that the Blood has Become Thin and Watery

In almost every case the victims of a grippé, influenza, fevers and contagious troubles are left weak, ailing and despondent after the disease is over. The only reason for this is they do not pick up strength as they ought, and remain tired, listless and discouraged. The only reason for this is they do not pick up strength as they ought, and remain tired, listless and discouraged. The only reason for this is they do not pick up strength as they ought, and remain tired, listless and discouraged.

Strength and full activity will not return until the blood has been restored to its normal condition. The blood can be enriched and purified quickly and surely by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. To enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves is the whole mission of these pills, and thousands have found them beneficial after disease had left them weak and run down. Among those who have proved the value of these pills in cases of this kind is Mr. Charles J. Thayer, Night-keeper at the New Cap light station, N.S. He says:—"In Jan., 1917, I took a severe cold which I neglected until it developed into pneumonia, which confined me to bed for some weeks. When I was able to get up and sit around the house, I found that I was not regaining my usual strength; in fact I seemed to be growing weaker and was reduced almost to a skeleton. I took an emulsion, but it did not help me. Then one day a friend who came to see me said, 'Here's some Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; just the thing to put you on your feet again.' I took them and then got six boxes more and soon could feel they were helping me. By the time the last box was empty I was doing my work again and feeling fine, and I had gained in weight. My health has since continued good and I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Britain Prepared to Meet Payment Due in Autumn

The Government has completed arrangements to pay, during the coming autumn, interest amounting to $125,000,000 on the British debt to the United States. It has not yet been decided whether a special mission will be sent to Washington to discuss the debt with the U.S. Government.

It is stated in British quarters that the feeling in the United States is believed to favor the negotiations for the funding of the allied debts being undertaken with Great Britain first, she being the principal debtor. A model thus would be applied for subsequent negotiations with other countries.

At the Railway Crossing

Trains Get You Going, Coming and Standing Still

Railroad crossings are places where automobile drivers turn around and visit with the people on the back seat. They frequently become good mixers by this process. Sometimes it is hard to distinguish one from another after the train has gone by. The driver is always easy to pick out. He is the one with his face turned away from the railroad track.

Many people are of the opinion that the highway crosses the railroad tracks. That is not so. The railroad track always crosses the highway. Some railroad tracks run four abreast. Their percentage of hits is higher than the single-track variety. It gets them three ways—going, coming and standing still.

Aviator Establishes Endurance Record

Flew from London to Paris Twice in One Day

Captain E. C. Horne, who is piloting one of the new D.H.34 "excesses" on the London-Paris airway, succeeded in establishing a new endurance record in commercial aviation. Leaving the London air station at Croydon for Paris at 6:55 a.m., Captain Horne flew to Paris in 122 minutes. After half an hour's rest he flew back to Croydon, arriving there at 11:51. Snatching a hasty luncheon, he was in the air again—still in the same machine—at 12:45 p.m., and alighted at Paris at 2:58 p.m. Spending only 22 minutes on the ground at Paris, he returned to Croydon at 5:40 p.m.

Within 11½ hours Captain Horne piloted the same aeroplane 1,000 miles, his "flying time" being 8 hours 52 minutes. It is the first time that one pilot has flown to Paris and back twice in the same day.

The previous best performance was that of Captain Shepperson, who, on the day of the French Grand Prix in 1920, flew from London to Paris in the morning, back to London again after luncheon, and then back to Paris once more before dusk.

Settlers Bringing in Money

Settlers who arrived in Winnipeg during the month of April, 1925, numbered 1,254, according to a statement issued by Thomas Geley, Commissioner of Immigration. Their effects were valued at approximately $187,297, and they brought with them $353,932 in cash.

Steel window shades which drop when the display window glass is broken have been installed in some western stores to call burglars.

Where Settlers Come From

A statement compiled by the Department of Immigration and Colonization shows that for the month of April 3,268 immigrants entered Canada from the United States, and 3,330 from other sources. Of the settlers from the United States, the State of Michigan contributed the largest numbers, were from Arizona, and North Carolina, with one each.

Volume of business handled by the egg and poultry marketing service of the provincial and dominion governments in Alberta has grown 300 per cent over last year, according to a statement by J. H. Hare, Alberta poultry and marketing commissioner. Over twenty carloads of eggs have already been handled this year by the service, and the staff is keep busy with the amount of business offered. A large staff is being maintained. This service is a co-operative one between the farmers, the Alberta and the dominion departments of agriculture, the dominion men working the field and the provincial men operating the marketing stations.

The new tax recovery act passed at the last session is now in operation. Land owners in arrears of taxes after July 1st, will still have until August 14th, to pay up, but if arrears remain unpaid after that date, the municipality in which the land lies files a caveat against the land, and within one year of the date of filing, if the taxes are still unpaid, the municipality may take title to the land. During the year, owners may pay arrears and the caveat may be withdrawn. After title is taken by the municipality, the owner may still redeem the land up to the time it is offered for sale by public auction. Provision is also made for giving the tax delinquents ample notice, with warning during the month of March that their lands are in arrears and liable to forfeiture and if then not redeemed within the redemption period they pass finally into the possession of the municipalities, free from all encumbrances except claims for seed grain or relief liens.

U. F. A.

IRMA LOCAL U. F. A.

A special meeting of the above Local will be held Sat. 15th at 2.30, to elect delegates to the annual convention of the Wainwright U. F. A. and U. F. W. A. Political Association to be held in the Elite Theatre, Wainwright, on Monday, July 17th at 10 a.m.

Also to elect delegates to the Fourth Annual Convention of the Battle River U. F. A. and U. F. W. A. Political Association, which will be held at Wainwright on Tuesday and Wednesday July 18th and 19th.

All members are requested to attend
TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE U.F.A.
AND U. F. W. A. IN THE BATTLE
RIVER CONSTITUENCY.

The time for our annual convention is approaching, and a review of existing conditions may perhaps be in order.

It looks as though we were going to have to depart from previous custom this year in regard to our convention. It would seem from indications at the time of writing, that the session of Parliament will not be over until the end of June, and your board has decided to delay the convention until some time in July when our representative Mr. Spencer will be able to be with us.

Our present membership is comparatively small owing no doubt to present financial conditions in the country; however, I have confidence that there is still a determination in the minds of our non-members to stay in the fight, and I look forward to quite an increase in our membership between now and the convention date.

Citizens should not cease to take an active interest in public affairs after winning an election. Victory at the polls is a certificate of title only; We must follow and give close personal attention to government, and administration.

Why should we hire a man and turn him loose to manage our affairs for a term of years without close personal supervision?

It is our duty to see that public affairs are managed, not for the advantage of those in charge, but so as to make for the prosperity and well-being of the general public, in which every individual may share.

It is written that "the wicked flee when no man pursueth," so it is only reasonable to infer that they go much faster when they know someone is after them.

I trust that our members will realize their responsibility in this matter and signify the same by an active interest in the organization, with a special effort to make this our fourth annual convention the success it has proven in the past.

Yours fraternally,
W. G. Farquharson, Pres.

Letters to Editor.

To the Editor of the Irma Times:

Some time ago I asked the reason why some of the prize-winners names of the Irma Fall Fair had not been published in your paper and you very kindly gave the reason that a list could not be got from the Sec-Treas. Now I ask the Sec-Treas. to give his reason why he declines from giving in the list. We shall expect a good reason, otherwise the entries in the Horticultural classes will fall short of last year. I might mention that last year's exhibition was pronounced to be the best in quality since the fair started and yet the winners names must be kept in the dark.

Easy Now to Rid Your Farm of Gophers

Wonderful Discovery by Noted Scientist Kills Every Gopher Within a Week's Time--Not a Poison.

Gophers cost farmers over two hundred millions of dollars a year, thru the destruction of crops and damage to land. Farmers need no longer suffer for this loss because they can now kill off all the gophers on their farm in less than a week's time. This is possible through the remarkable discovery of E. R. Alexander, a chemist who has perfected a virus, which kills gophers and rats as though by magic. This product is not a poison—it can be eaten by human beings or any animal on the farm as safely as their regular food, but means quick, sure death, to gophers.

This wonderful gopher virus, which is known as Alexander Gopher Killer, is merely mixed with bread or meat scraps and placed where gophers, rats and mice can get at it. Within a few hours after a gopher has eaten Alexander Gopher-Killer he gets a high fever and suffers a terrible shunt. He leaves his pits and nesting holes and goes to the open field in search of pure air and running water.

It is a scientific fact that one gopher affects others and soon the whole colony dies. And though this virus is absolutely deadly to gophers—chickens, hogs, cattle or any farm animal can eat it and not be affected at all.

So confident is Mr. Alexander that Alexander Gopher-Killer will kill every gopher on your farm in less than a week's time that he offers to send, as an introductory offer, a regular $4.00 tube for only $2.00. Give it according to directions, and if at the end of a week's time you are able to discover any gophers, rats or mice on your farm your money will be refunded. A big Toronto bank guarantees that Mr. Alexander is reliable and will do as he says.

Just send money order, check or currency for $2.00 to E. R. Alexander, Alexander Laboratories, 5004 Terminal, Toronto, Ontario, and the tube will be mailed at once on the guarantee that if not absolutely satisfactory your money will be returned without questions. Write today and stop your gopher losses now. 9-18-c

Elba.

June 21st, 19—

Once upon a time in the dim and distant past, when I was eighteen, I wrote a story, and sent it to The Young Churchman. After several weeks it was returned to me, with a fatherly letter from the editor in which he regretted that he was unable to use it, because, "while it was of undoubted merit, it lacked serial value." I have since reached the conclusion that a story possessing serial value is one in which the chapters, like Sam Weiler's valentine, put up sudden so you wish there was more. Taking this as a standard, I feel sure that even the editor of The Young Churchman would commend what I wrote this morning. The credit is wholly due to Mrs. Mills, however, for she called me to dinner just at the psychological moment.

But to continue my chronicle of yesterday's happenings. It was with fear and trembling that I descended to the dining-room. Mrs. Mills was coming in from the kitchen as we entered. In one hand she carried a platter of broiled chicken, and in the other a blue enameled teapot. "Just get down, Miss Eliot, an' you too, Miss Arnold, an' get your chicken afore it gets cold. I hope you both fancy well. I ain't got anywhere to keep meat in the house, an' so when company comes unbeknownst, I just pops out an' kills a rooster an' has a good meal ready in a jiffy. These here fowls were running around the yard as pert as you please half an hour ago. When I first come to Elba, you couldn't get fowls cheaper for money, an' what eggs you could buy at the store had to have their necks wrung before you could cook them. I was raised here where chickens an' eggs is as plentiful as dirt, an' so I soon changed that—made the desert blossom like a rose as you might say."

"Dinner ready?" interrupted a familiar voice from the kitchen. "The young ladies are just setting down, Mr. Hartford," replied our hostess. "Don't wait to give your hands a time, even; this chicken's fit for a king now an' I want you to eat it while it's fresh."

Appetite Good, Gained 20 lbs. Could Not Feel Better

From a nervous wreck this man was restored to health, strength and happiness.

He tells his own story in this letter.

Mr. Ralph A. Roberts,

Lovena, Sask., writes:

"In 1917 I had lost all appetite, failed 25 pounds in weight, became very nervous and shaky and in fact given up all hope of recovery. For some time I had suffered from constipation, which kept getting worse, until I was fast becoming a total wreck. Doctors and their drugs were sending me to my grave at the age of 39."

"Then I read about people being restored by Dr. Chase's Kidney and after three months' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills I found that my bowels were restored to normal movement and the constipation was no more. I had a good appetite, had gained 20 pounds and could not feel better. I shall always be grateful for these benefits."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50¢ a box; Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25¢ a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

W. N. U. 1424

My heart was in my boots and Mary's eyes were dancing as the owner of the voice appeared. "These here are Miss Eliot and Mrs. Arnold," Mr. Hartford said, and she dropped it at once. Miss Eliot's tall one with the pink cheeks—she's a countryman of yours, I reckon. An' the little one is Miss Arnold, an' if she ain't cut out of with the new craze we had expected. "Just make yourselves at home; I got some baking to do. Holler if you want anything." With this parting injunction the worthy Rebecca took herself off, and left me to do the honours of the table.

Mary's disappointment did not seem to affect her appetite—the way in which that chicken disappeared was a marvel. But a greater marvel still, Mr. Hartford went to Oriel with Father! What a small world this is, after all! And what a platitude that is! Of course Mr. Hartford is much younger than Father, and they did not know each other intimately, but in spite of these little drawbacks he made me feel that I had met an old friend, and almost before I had told him why I had come to Canada and what I intended to do while here.

And all the while I could feel Mary's impish smile, although her face bore the innocent expression of a child. One of her theories is that an English girl will fall for a clergyman every time, walk right up and eat out of his hand. I love Mary's mischief.

Mr. Hartford is a singularly handsome man, with a grave expression that is contradicted by the humorous twinkle in his mouth and the twinkle in his eyes. Mary says that all he needs to make him a perfect hero for a romantic novel is a disappointment in love which has driven him to seek oblivion in the wild and woolly west. I have since reached the conclusion that, though I doubt it, but the immediate cause of his sojourn in Canada was an attack of typhoid fever which left him unfit for work in his London parish. While he was still only convalescent he was reached by one of the periodic appeals of the church for funds to work in the mission fields, and as soon as he was able to travel he volunteered for a year. He has now been in Elba for six months and every trace of his illness has vanished, the credit, he declares, being half due to his diet and sunshine and half to Mrs. Mills's cooking.

He knows the Fiskes although they do not attend his church. He tells me that they are quite wealthy people in their position, but totally undisciplined—with the exception of the young girl who has been sent to school in Winnipeg and who tries to give a polish to the manners of the family. A pleasing prospect for me, is it not?

"While we are gossiping about our neighbours," said Mary, "can you tell us anything about the young man who brought us from the station?" "Livingstone? Well, not much about him, for he is only here for a romantic tale, a big ranch in western Alberta. But the family are the people—the other kind of Canadian. I was raised in a middle-class family in Mary's direction. They are Presbyterians, but as the Presbyterians have only one service a day, they often come to St. George's in the evening. Mrs. Livingstone is a dear old lady, very proud of her descent from the Macdonalds of Glenora, and prouder still of my son Ian Macdonald, the Don of our acquaintance."

After dinner Mary and I decided to "do" Elba. As we were about to leave the house, Mrs. Mills called to us to wait for a few minutes and she would go with us as she had some shopping to do. With the promise that she would come with us, we waited and in ten minutes the three of us were walking down Elba's main and only street.

By this time I had decided that it would be wise to tell our hostess my business in Elba, for I could see that she was consumed with curiosity. I shall never forget her expression when I told her that I was going to the Fiske farm as a working companion.

"Land sakes! I'm that flabbergasted that I well nigh swallowed my false teeth. You're working companion—why, that in plain Canadian means 'hired girl,' nothing more nor less!" An' for Arabella Fiske of all people! When we were kids back east we used to go to school together, an' of all stupid creatures she was the worst."

"When we were older an' John Fiske come west, I wrote every last letter he ever got from Arabella. She couldn't write fit to be seen, nor spell, an' her grammar was something fierce. But she was ways kept company more or less, but I declared to goodness that it was my letters what brought him to the point. An' just you mark my words, there ain't nothing like a little encouraging to bring a man around."

"So the next time I wrote to John I says that I was Arabella, the 'good one' of them, mute ungrateful Milton what we used to have in our old Pith River, but that when I take my pen in hand my foot is on its native heath. Pretty good, wasn't it?"

"Lovely!" responded Mary enthusiastically. "And that did John say?" "Oh," said Mrs. Mills, "he says that a mute ungrateful Milton is just what he's been looking for, an' that spring was coming on an' he had hired a lot of men an' couldn't get a cook, an' would she marry him right away?"

The SHING FAIRY

Continued

THE END OF STELLA'S "MAKE BELIEVE" STORY

ONE HUNDRED years at least had passed, since that day when the old man turned the wicked Prince Carl and his wife, the Princess Elsie, into two black swans. The castle that had been their home was now but a pile of ruins in which bats made their homes and in the ivy that grew wild over many generations. The child who had lived on their happy little lives. The Swans still glided majestically over the quiet surface of the moat that surrounded what remained of the castle. They seemed, even to the wicked Prince, that glittered in their hearts and the tears of hate that always flowed from their glittering yellow eyes into the moat.

One day, a day of gray and rain, a young woman dragged herself wearily along the road toward the castle, leading by the hand a little boy. The child stumbled more than once and the mother made every effort to carry him, but she was far too weak and ill, so on and on they struggled, when suddenly, by the edge of the moat, the woman lurched forward and through his teeth he felt a blow, and though too weak to realize that he would never again hear his mother's voice or feel her tender arms draw him close, sobs burst through his throat. He turned and saw the two Swans, who were close by, and he walked, he crawled over the grass to his mother's side, and through his tears he looked at her; for he seemed so strangely still. He tugged at her gown as he usually when he did this there was some kind of an answer, if only a little word, usually, but this time she never moved! The little fellow crawled yet closer and tried to take his accustomed place in her arms, the warm loving arms that now were already beginning to feel so cold.

And though everything the two Swans saw, were so quiet, that they hardly ruffled the surface of the water. They were watching all that was passing, but no longer was there a glimmer of rage in their eyes, and they changed to sorrow and the hate to pity. During the many years that had passed since the moat had been built and bordered by its wall of stone many changes had taken place. Time had softened the wall with moss and there were spots where the stone had crumbled away and grass covered earth sloped gently down to the water. Over one of these spots the two Swans worked their way and up the bank to the weeping child; for deep down in their hearts, a memory yet lingered of when, as a Prince and Princess and wicked they then had been, they had both felt a great longing to have a little child of their very own. And here was a child in trouble, such trouble that to see it hurt them to their very core. They were so close to the child and gently spread their wings over him as though they would comfort him as far as was in their power.

As they did so a great light enveloped the child and every little group and in less than a moment everything was completely changed. The castle was no longer a pile of vine covered ruins but stood as it had been a hundred years before.

Even a flag trembled in the breeze from the top of the tower. The two Swans were once more what they had formerly been. Prince Carl and Princess Elsie, but a prince and princess, whose hearts were full of love and kindness. Prince Carl carried the little boy. His golden curls fell over his shoulders and his eyes were closed in happy sleep. She now had a child of her very own! Where the woman who had been his mother had lain, now stood the same old man (the Fairy in disguise) who had years back so cruelly punished the wicked Prince and Princess.

"Now that everything is once more as it should be," he said, "I shall leave you, for at last you know love and pity! My sack contains happiness, all just as it should be. He and the great light disappeared leaving

"Well," and Stella smiled at the listening Brownies, "did you like my 'make-believe' story?" But the Brownies couldn't answer. They were thinking.

WEAK HEART NERVES BADLY SHATTERED

Many a woman who should be strong and healthy, full of life and energy is bound by the shackles of ill-health. Some disease or constitutional disturbance has left its mark in the form of a weak heart, shattered nerves, impoverished blood and an exhausted condition of the whole system.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

They will find a remedy that will supply food for the exhausted nerves, open up the blood channels and regulate the weak heart and invigorate the whole system.

Mrs. W. W. Pearce, 14 Seaton St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"I was left with a weak heart and in a run down condition from the 'flu.' My nerves were badly shattered, and I had such pains around my heart I could not sleep much at night. I took several doctors' medicines without getting any better. My husband got me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after I took one box I got relief, and after taking six boxes I have been well and at my normal state."

was their bridesmaid. They had a swell wedding.

"But here we are at the store. Walk right in and I'll introduce you to all the folks—nothing like being so sociable in a man's town."

Coming after Eaton's, the Elba Beehive was something of a shock; but I must admit that it fitted in with my preconceived ideas of Canada much better than did the former place. In Elba, and I suppose in other small towns and villages, the "good store" is market, grocery, draper's shop, post-office, and club, all in one. The shelves contain a varied assortment of goods; and the chairs, stools and empty boxes an equally varied assortment of humanity. Of the last mentioned I was most interested in an Indian woman, and a small boy who was gazing with longing eyes at a glass-stoppered—and long unwatched—bottle which held dead-looking but evidently desirable sweets.

President of Red Cross Society Expresses Appreciation

Noel Marshall, of Toronto, President of the Red Cross Society, upon returning to London from visiting the battlefields in France and Belgium, expresses himself as gratified at the extreme care taken of the war graves. Mr. Marshall suggests that Canadians going to France call first at the Red Cross headquarters, 5, Waterloo Place, London, where they will receive every assistance in connection with their proposed tour.

One-Man Machine Gun

Can be Carried Same Way as Ordinary Rifle

The British War Office has recently been testing a remarkable machine gun which is so light that it can easily be carried by one man slung over his shoulder in much the same way as an ordinary rifle. This weapon is capable of firing from 400 to 700 rounds per minute according to the strength of the spring used. The weight, complete with mounting, is only 5½ lbs., and the inventor claims that there is no possibility of the cartridge becoming jammed in the gun. Lubrication of the mechanism is not necessary and the heat of the barrel does not affect the working in any way; in fact the gun will continue firing even though the barrel gets red hot. When the cartridge is fired gas passes through an aperture in the barrel into a cylinder and forces a piston backwards, thus operating a spring which brings another cartridge from the magazine into place.

Alcohol was first distilled by the Arabians, and when we talk about coffee and alcohol we are using Arabian words.

Apple-pie Order

Few persons, when they use the phrase, "in apple-pie order," ever think of Hephzibah Merton. She was a housewife of Puritan times. Every Saturday the good woman baked a dozen apple-pies, which were to last her family through the week. These she placed in her pantry labelling one or more for each day. The pantry thus arranged was said to be "in apple-pie order."

With all due respect for Mrs. Hephzibah, one is inclined to think that her family must have got very tired of apple-pie.

From Halifax to Vancouver

Trans-Canada Highway is Declared Objective of Automobile Association

A trans-Canada highway from Halifax to Vancouver was stated to be the objective of the Canadian Automobile Association by Dr. E. P. Doolittle, President of the organization, in his address at a Kiwanis Club luncheon held in Winnipeg.

Dr. Doolittle said the first and immediate aim of the Canadian Automobile Association was to be the designation of a road between Winnipeg and Vancouver. Later would follow the struggle for the route east of Winnipeg. Besides aiding those living along the proposed highway, Dr. Doolittle said tourists would bring money and prosperity to the towns and cities through which the highway ran.

An Outfit That Will Soon Be Seen Everywhere

All hands are now extremely busy replenishing their wardrobes for the spring. And one of the most important items in this wardrobe is the spring suit. Shown here is a very charming suit of gray twill. The self-colored hand embroidery and the neat tailoring contribute to the trimness and distinction of this suit. A large straw picture hat laden down with cherries of different shades tops off a costume that will be very familiar in a short time.

Cash Value of Prairie Trees

Add Greatly to the Value of the Prairie Farm

Most interesting results have come from a questionnaire sent by the Dominion Forestry Branch, Ottawa; to scores of prairie province farmers who have been successful in establishing tree plantations with the help of the Dominion Nursery at Indian Head, Sask. One point in the questionnaire related to the increased money value of the farm properties as a result of tree planting. Some of the replies are as follows:

"I think the trees have added $1,000 to the value of this property."

"I consider a bluff like mine would add at least $2,000 to the value of any farm." In fact I would not live anywhere without planting trees out."

"I consider it adds $5 an acre in value to a farm where you have protection of trees."

"They have added, to the money value of my property to the extent of at least $2,000."

"The very lowest value I could place on my trees would be $1,000."

"I consider that a windbreak adds thousands of dollars to a farm and I have told a large number of my neighbors this and not one of them could deny it."

A Sum in Addition

"Two and One is Shoe Polish," Little Pat's Answer

Little Pat started at school yesterday, entering the first grade. After he had come home his mother listened to many strange tales of the day's doings. But Pat's reports were not confined to his domain alone, for in the early part of the evening he was walking along the street near his home, when a grown-up friend stopped him.

Right away things started. No questions were needed. Pat was wound up like an eight-day clock. "Say, I want to school today and gee whilkins, what a time we had. De teacher giv us a piece of paper dat was about a yard long and about a foot wide and she made us put numbers all over de place."

"What, a yard long and a foot wide?" asked Pat's friend.

"Yes," was the reply, and then the youngster measured off a distance of about 10 inches long and about three inches wide. That was Pat's idea of a yard and a foot.

"De teacher axed me if I cud count, and I told her yes and I can add, too."

"What is two and one, Pat?"

"Two, and two and two is four and three and three is six," kept on Pat without a letup. He continued this until he reached seven and seven. He could not answer this.

The little fellow's friend then tried him on a lower number.

"What is two an' one, Pat?"

"Shoe polish," I said.

"What is two an' one?"

"Shoe polish, I said."

"No, two and one makes three."

"Ya can't tell me, mister, cus I know, two an' one is shoe polish."

Nothing could make Pat believe that two an' one was anything else.

J. BERTRAM SIMON, well-known photographer, of Tacoma, Wash., who says that since taking Tanlac with such good results he now knows why everybody is praising this wonderful medicine.

"When they told me about Tanlac it seemed almost too good to be true, but since taking the medicine I know for myself that all they said about it was so," said J. Bertram Simon, 1021 E. 46th St., Tacoma, Wash., a well-known photographer.

"I suffered from rheumatism in my shoulders for ten years and at one time had to go to the hospital. I was down in bed for months and hardly able to turn from side to side. I couldn't sleep and I don't believe I had a day free from pain. My appetite failed and I couldn't digest a thing properly. Gas made me have heartburn for hours after meals."

"In a very short time after I started taking Tanlac I actually felt like a new man. I am now entirely rid of rheumatism and my stomach is in first-class condition, while I have gained ten pounds and never felt better. I have recommended Tanlac to a number of people and I am always glad to say a good word for this remarkable medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

The Minard's Liniment People.

Sirs—I feel that I should be doing a wrong if I neglected to write you. I have had four tumors growing on my head for years. I had them cut off by a surgeon about three years ago, but they grew again till about three months ago I had one as large and shaped like a lady's thumb on the very place where my hair should be parted, and it was getting so embarrassing that I was at last obliged to get it removed. About three months ago I got a bottle of your liniment for sore throat and saw on the label good for tumors. Well I tried it and kept it for exactly two months, with the result that it has entirely removed all trace of the tumor, and when it got that they had been cut fifteen years ago, no mark would be seen. I have not been asked for this testimonial and you can use it as you see fit.

P. R.—I am a farmer and intend using Minard's Liniment on a mare for a strained tendon, and am hoping for soon.

HOW TO USE

GRASSHOPPER POISON

A great deal of grasshopper poison bait is being wasted it has been found by the department of agriculture through the fact that the bait is often put out at the wrong time of day and in some cases before the hoppers have made their appearance at all. Grasshoppers begin to feed in the morning when the sun becomes hot enough to heat them up, and this is the time to place the bait. Good judgement must be used in this regard, but from present observations, on ordinarily warm days, the proper time to place the bait is between 6:30 and 9 in the morning. The effectiveness of the bait depends much upon this. The bait may be effective for two hours if the moisture condition of the bait is right, but not be effective an hour if put out too late in the day. Young grasshoppers suck rather than eat, thus the importance of having proper moisture condition in the bait.
